THAT on the 1st of January next, there will be on the pension roll fully 1,000,-000 names.

That Congress will be asked to appropriate for the payment of pensions $186,-

That the pensioners now on the list are to the voters of the whole Union.

That it takes 40 per cent. or more of the nations revenue to pay off these pen-

That the pension list costs $120,000,000 more than the entire expenses of the government before the war.

That it has increased $160,000,000 since That the number of pensions on the 1st of January will almost equal the regular standing armies of France and Germany combined. That if this reckless expenditure is not checked, it will cost for 1894 the enormous sum of $200,000,000.

That this carnival of wrong and rob bery must cease, and the pension list be purged of its frauds.

That it will be the duty of the Democratic President and Congress to revise the list in the interest of deserving veterans and of an imperiled Treasury.

That no patriotic citizen, be he Demo crat or Republican, will object to calling a halt in this pension robbery.

As Owensboro is discussing the streetpaving question, and many of her citizens are advocating the laying of the best payement possible, we respectfully call the attention of Owensboro to the fact that vitrified brick make the best pave ment in the world, and that Cloverpor makes the best vitrifid brick in the world We are near neighbors and will give you inside figures. It is said that President Cleveland's inauguration on the 4th of March, next, promises to be participated in by the largest body of people, and to be accompanied by the most unique and picturesque features, which have characterized an inauguration since the days of Jackson. Tammany has promised to turnout 10,000 strong, and to exhibit in parade a real uncaged tiger.

THE Third party people have about abandoned the sub-treasury scheme. Their latest "demands" are that they "favor the sub-treasury or something bet ter," and as there are many things that are a vast sight better than this wild, impracticable idea, the inference is that it will no longer receive any consideration.

Dave's Latest.

The Hon. David R. Murray, of Cloverport, who is in town quite often, is re-sponsible for a little story to the effect that during the late campaign a Democrat and a Republican were debating in the great county of Breckenridge, with the proverbial result, that neither could be convinced as to which had the best of the argument. They at last decided to call upon old Judge Briggs, whoever that is, to act as referee. Taking the stand solemnly, the old gentleman of the petrified school said: "Gentlemen, my opin-ion is, that the Republican was more fluminious in his remarks, but the Democrat computed more pints." Besides tearing down the house this decision was complete and final.—The Girl.

The Court of Claims.

The County Court of Claims after a four days session, completed their labors at Hardinsburg last Friday. Only the general routine work of adjusting the county's business was gone through with. Nothing of any special importance was before the Court for adjudication, unless it was the matter of levying the tax in the Hardinsburg and Rough Creek precincts to pay the interest on the $60,000 railroad bonds voted to McCracken & Co. for building the L. H. & W. The magistrates refused to levy this tax, after hearing the arguments pro and con on the subject. Interest has been running now on the bonds some two or three years, and if the people in those districts are Prof. Shacklett went to Brandenburg finally forced to pay the bonds, it will be quite a large debt to shoulder. They seem determined however to fight the matter to the end. It will probably not be determined until it is carried through the courts.

The other business before the magistrates was that of defraying the current expenses of the county. The list of claims John Slaton and W. W. Vessels went allowed will show that this is not unusually large, and that we are in a very fair condition, financially. One of the most expensive items on us heretofore, has been that of bridge building. Only one bridge was built during the past year, and hereafter this item of public expense may be dropped off, as our county is now well supplied with bridges. They have all been principally built of iron and the cost has been heavy. There are a number in the county, but they will doubtless prove durable as well as beneficial to

One important feature in dealing with public matters is that of guarding against extravigance in appropriations. We think our board of magistrates has been conservative along this line, and had an eye to the interest of the tax payer. At east we see nothing in the action of the body just closed that could be termed wasteful or extravagant.

F. P. Haygood was allowed $25 for inspecting bridge.

Mr. D. Hambleton, G. W. Beard and James Crawford were appointed commissioners to look after raising the Cloverport bridge, and were authorized to receive bids for same.

Morris Eskridge was directed to execute deed to the purchaser of the poorhouse farm sold by Mr. G. W. Beard. Mrs. Atwood was allowed $846.10 for keeping poor-house, paupers, &c., as shown by her report. Mr. F. K. Rhcdes was allowed $112.00 for his services as bridge commissioner,

It was the general opinion of the court that the farm purchased of John Slaton or the poor-house property, was bought at a bargain, and no better place could have been selected. The court will not meet again until next April, and thereafter they will hold two sessions a year, one in October.

When the tax question was voted down ast Tuesday, the following order appeared on the minute book of the county clerk: "Make certified copy of order of county court refusing to make levy of axes in tax district of Breckenridge county made at the January term 1892. Also, list of the names of Justices of Peace in commission at said term. Also, copy of amount of assessment of real and personal property in said tax district by said court at its January term 1890. Also, a certified copy of the official bonds of J. S. DeJernett as sheriff, and for collecting county levy that was in force in 1890 and '92, signed D. R. Murray attorney for the L., St. L. & T. R. Mr. Andrew Bickerstaff's sudden death Friday, the 18th, was quite a shock to his many friends. He lived on a farm above town, in the Bottom, and was one of our best farmers. His wife and family who are left to mourn his loss, have the sympathy of many friends.

Agriculture in the Schools.

It should be, if it is not, conceded by all that farming is something in which the brains must co-operate with the muscles in order to secure the best results. Scientific principles every day find a wider application in the raising of crops, the breeding and development of stock and the methods of handling the products of the farm. This being true. it would seem that our public school system should show its recognition of these facts by incorporating among the studies those branches that have a direct application to agriculture. It has been charged, and not without some show of reason, that our schools educate our children away from the farm by giving prominence to branches that have a professional rather than an industrial application. Now, as agriculture is the foundation of all property, it is obvious that what improves its condition improves in a corresponding degree the general dondition of the people. But the schools can exert another helpful influence in impressing upon the young mind the dignity of farming. Our boys and girls should be early taught that drudgery is not now a necessary condition of farming, that it is an industrial business which should be conducted on business principles, and that brain force exerts a greater influence than mer-muscular energy. Especially should our country schools be schools for farmers. They are supported by farmers, the pupils are farmers' sons and daughters, and the majority of them will make farming their life work. For those who aspire to the professions there are schools especially adapted to their needs, and specific professional instruction should not be paid for out of public funds. Farmers should take a greater interest in their schools, and see that good teachers are employed who are not inculcating, in their instruction, false and pernicious ideas of life. Education is something more than a privilege. It is a duty, and the parent who neglects this duty to his children does them a cruel injury that no amount of money he leaves them can ever make good.—Western Plowman.
